

THE WAY HOME

THE WAY HOME A DOCUMENTARY SERIES ON CALIFORNIA'S HOMELESSNESS

Without a safe place to call home, it's nearly impossible to focus on basic health and medical needs. As rates of housing insecurity amid COVID-19 steadily increase, people experiencing homelessness face heightened health risks. Now, more than ever, housing is health.

The Way Home, a short-form documentary series from KTF Films and Bread and Butter Films, draws attention to the growing homelessness crisis in California and beyond. Kaiser Permanente supported the production of The Way Home to deepen understanding, spark dialogue and illuminate root causes — as well as promising solutions — to the homelessness crisis in California and across the country.

No one organization can solve the affordable housing and homelessness crisis alone — and you can be part of the solution.

To host your own screening event

Fill out this brief survey or email us at thewayhome@picturemotion.com.

Organizations interested in hosting screening events will be provided:

- Advanced access to the series
- Conversation guides to facilitate discussion amongst your organization
- A take action guide to spark participation in mitigating homelessness in your own community
- A private, password-protected screening platform with chat functionality
- Ongoing support from The Way Home event team

Learn more about The Way Home at thewayhomedoc.com.